Former CIA agent to lecture at GAC

by Susan Leidner

Former CIA agent John Stockwell will be lecturing at Gustavus Adolphus College on November 20 at 8:00 pm in Bjorling Concert Hall.

Junior Christina Pierson, CAB chair in charge of speakers at the college said, "He will be discussing his views on the CIA in Vietnam, Angola, and Nicaragua."

Pierson stated that Stockwell has lectured at many colleges stating his opposing views towards the CIA and his own personal experience dealing with the CIA in these countries. She also added that the CIA tried to stop Stockwell from publishing his book.

According to Pierson, Stockwell was chosen from one of the many brochures sent to the college and was selected as fall semester speaker and sponsored by CAB because of his interesting background and information concerning the CIA. He also fit into the student budget.

Tickets to the lecture are free and can be obtained at the ticket center.
